SLEEVELESS SILK SWEATER FOR SUMMER SPORTS WEAR.

To enjoy the many summer sports, it is essential that your garb be neither too warm nor too light-fitting, and of course young ladies wouldn't consider any sort of costume if it did not add somewhat to their appearance. This silk sleeveless sweater is comfortable. The black and white striped effect is very dainty. The white-edged pocket and white belt straps set off the sweater attractively. The collar is rather large.

SCOUTS WILL CANVASS
Troops of the City Are Preparing for Drive to Start Saturday.

The Boy Scout troops of the city are preparing for the Liberty Bond canvass which will start on Saturday of this week and last just one week, their campaign ending on the closing day of the drive. The scouts will again scrape the city for loose bands that may have been missed by the canvassing committees.

The boys do not expect to make the showing they did in the second drive when several hundred thousand dollars were subscribed, as the systematic house to house canvass has cleaned up the city thoroughly. However, the scouts will act as gleaners after the reapers, and will secure any subscriptions that have been overlooked or if possible induce subscribers to raise their loan totals.

GRAY HAIR BECOMES DARK AND BEAUTIFUL

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Adv.

20 YEARS YOUNGER ASSERTS WOMAN

Marie Schults Tells of Remarkable Recovery Through Using Master Medicine.

"I feel twenty years younger, and sleep like a log when I go to bed," said Mrs. Marie Schults, of Grantham street, North Side, Pittsburgh, Pa., since I began to take Taniae.
I had suffered for a long time with rheumatism in my stomach and shortness of breath and my bowels were always giving me trouble.
I often went for days at a time without sleeping. Because of my terrible nervous condition.

So I got a bottle. I had no idea I would get such quick relief. After I had taken about half a bottle the rheumatism pains left my limbs. My stomach got so good that I could eat my meals and never feel bad afterward. My bowels got regular. When I would lie down at night my head would hardly touch the pillow until I would be fast asleep. When I awakened in the morning I felt rested and could hardly believe it was myself.

Since I have been taking Taniae I have not been troubled with gas pressing up against my heart. I eat what I please. I go out among the neighbors and visit them and my friends and if I want to go to the store I go and have a nice time. I never am afraid of being sick any more.

Taniae is now sold here by the Connecticut Drug Co. Taniae can also be secured in Dunbar at D. C. Evans Drug Store—Adv.

ARE WE STANDING BY THEM?

Today American soldiers, the pride of loving, loyal mothers' hearts, are offering, and for many days, months, yes, years, may continue to offer their lives as a willing sacrifice for our common country—dying for you, your wife, your daughter, your babes.

As they go to meet the supreme test of their loyalty and devotion, are they being cheered and nerved by the knowledge that we continue to today to the slacker—military, industrial and financial—ard still deal gently with spies and pro-German sympathizers who infect our land and multiply the perils our boys must face?

Are these boys—our sons and the sons of your friends and neighbors—being sustained in the solemn hour of their self-immolation upon the altar of freedom, by an abiding faith and assurance that we, in the protected haven of our homes, are consecrating all our strength, all our powers of mind and body, and practicing real self-denial in order to help equip, provision and clothe our soldiers; to lighten their burdens and to insure their comfort and well-being while they battle with the Beast of Prussia?

If we are failing in our duty, or offending in the least of these things, can we look any manly, clear-eyed, khaki-clad boy squarely in the face, as he comes home for a last farewell before going "Over There," or we meet a mother who has learned the cost of a son's vicarious sacrifice, and say, without a burning blush of shame giving the lie to our words, "We are standing by you?"

SAFETY FOR DEMOCRATS.

Much comfort is being experienced in certain Democratic circles from the fact that the office of the Alien Property Custodian, presided over by A. Mitchell Palmer, not unknown to fame as the one time candidate for United States Senator from Pennsylvania, is furnishing some rare opportunities for rewarding Deserving Democrats.

A recent case in point is the taking over of four German-owned woolen mills in New Jersey. It was found necessary to appoint a representative of the government to manage each of these properties. Singularly enough a prominent Democrat was found, out of the few unpledged ones who are left, whose term as "Judge is about to expire. He was given one of these managerial jobs and the other three were given to other Democrats whom the exigencies of politics demand that they be well placed.

Much responsibility attaches to these offices, and efficiency in their management requires technical knowledge and experience. The lack of these qualifications in the appointees, of course, counts but little alongside the extreme necessity for making the country safe for Democrats.

BIBLES AND BOYS.

Nearly every home in the United States owns a Bible. It is one of the essentials to the family peace of mind. About its mere presence is something instinctively reassuring; a sense of protection so to speak. To the devout family it is a never-ending fount of comfort. Even to the irreverent it is a sort of talisman of security, says the Liberty Loan committee. Very rarely is it ignored or flouted.

The average mortal is just as instinctively inclined to reverence as he is instinctively patriotic. Both are bred in the home.

And just as every home has its Bible so should every home have its Liberty Bond. One stands for spiritual comfort; the other for our material welfare. Both are essential to our peace of mind.

For if the Kaiser's blood-maddened, plundering legions ever overrun America there will be no place for Bibles. There will be little left of the religions of our fathers. Dominant instead will be that peculiar creed of the Kaiser's which permits him to claim partnership with the Lord of Hosts in the most stupendous slaughter the world has ever known.

The Menace of Excessive Taxation

Because America is wealthier—has more actual money in circulation and by far greater and richer natural resources to draw upon—than any of our ally countries, we have not felt the pinch of taxation here as they have abroad. We have been able to carry our load so far without being particularly inconvenienced. Business has not been disturbed seriously. There has been no financial difficulty. Conditions are but a little removed from being normal.

This is due wholly to the fact that the people have responded loyally and liberally to both the preceding Liberty Loans. It has had the effect of maintaining confidence; exceptional demand in every quarter has done the rest.

But such a condition will not continue if we fall down in the coming Liberty Loan. Failure now will mean repeated failures to meet the government's loan demands in future. And such failure will inevitably mean increased and, eventually, excessive taxation.

England, too, has made noble responses to her different loan demands, yet even so, with their taxation has mounted surprisingly. Especially is this so with regard to the income taxes which with us are extremely reasonable for the moderate earners.

The tax on incomes of $1,000 in England today is 4-1-2 per cent; on incomes of $1,500 it is 6-3-4 per cent, and on incomes of $2,000 it is 7-8 per cent. Here incomes of $1,000 are exempted even for single men.

This comparison of taxes upon incomes of more than $2,000 for married men, is extremely interesting:

	England	America
Income of $3,000.....	14	2-2 of 1
Income of $5,000.....	20	12
Income of $10,000.....	29	3
Income of $15,000.....	35	5

Americans want no such taxation here. Yet it threatens proportionately to the manner in which we fail to meet the government's loan demands. And this is but one of the phases of taxation possibilities. There are many other avenues open to Uncle Sam as a last resort.

It will be far better to buy Liberty Bonds at a fair interest rate than to stand to lose from five to 20 per cent of our incomes later in direct taxation.

And heaven knows we want none of that.

So read your Bible, but buy a bond. Ponder the one and treasure the other. They are both good for your peace of mind. They are satisfying to the soul. Bibles and bonds are a potent twin just now.

It is the Orangemen, not the Irishmen, who have caused for complaint as to the color of the paint used by the loyal Lake Erie shipmen at Pickersoon Run in putting the slacker's badge on the Austrian who refused to buy Liberty Bonds.

East spuds.

If the country residents who have been brought under a hypnotic spell by our Sunday bond boosting evangelists were not already patriotic, it might be said of them that they were subscribing as a measure of self-defense.

East more spuds.

Connellsville is becoming unsafe as a resort for out of town slackers.

The Connellsville bond boosters must not take the bull in the campaign. It means that Uniontown will not make a vigorous drive to recover the ground lost during the first week. The Second City of Fayette has had some speed practice.

What an efficient force of prayer-meeting leaders the Sunday bond boosting campaign is developing? Rustlers are making careful note of this.

Did you do more yesterday to help win the war than you did the day before?

By placing the same restrictions upon female as upon male enemy aliens President Wilson has given proof that he favors actual suffering as well as equal suffrage.

Eating more potatoes means eating less wheat, and saving wheat is going to help win the war.

Boosting the Booster.

Boost your city, boost your friend; Boost the church that you attend; Boost the street on which you're dwelling; Boost the goods that you are selling; Boost the people round about you; Boost the man for whom you labor; Boost the stranger and the neighbor; Boost the man for whom you labor; Boost the man for whom you labor; Boost the man for whom you labor; Boost it to the final letter.

Rippling Rhymes

WINNING THE WAR.

The trifling thing is trifling still, though trifling men defend it; there's just one thing that fills the bill—win the war and end it. To end the long drawn Prussian crime is all that counts here and if you waste your precious time on lesser things, you'd better not. Your piffling talk of politics, of offices you're seeking, of voice and money and campaign tricks, with selfishness is seeking. You talk of art and books and song, but silence would be wiser until we right the world's wrongs and can the killing Kaiser. Of margin, profit, cost and price, the man of commerce chatters; but all such deadends cut no less the war is all that matters. Do you still chase the sort of war wherever you may find it, while war is eating living men, and straining bones behind it? Are you for football games and sports "with their zeal a-tremble, while in Valhalla's silent courts the murdered hosts assemble? So long as Prussian eagles scream, and kettles blast and chatter, there's only one important theme, and war is all that matters.

MAN AND LADY.

I'm standing at my lathe all day, And this is what I hear it say: "The best of you, the best of me, Are needed now across the sea. We need not hear the cannon roar, No aeroplanes comes sailing over our heads, and yet from day to day We two are soldiers in the fray."

"Oh hand that guides me now be true, A mighty task is mine to do. Mine to shape and cut the steel, With every turning of my wheel I'm building for that better day When tyranny shall pass away. Speed up! Speed up! this thing I make May save a thousand lives at stake."

I whisper to my lathe: "Be strong. We toll today to right a wrong. Some of us march to life and drum, My music is your busy hum And this the hymn you sing to me Always: 'My Country 'Tis of Thee.' This very day, this very hour We'll sever the flag with all our power."

"On lathe of mine, across the sea They need the work of you and me. They'll be fine if we be true, They'll hold the line, if we but do This task that now to us is set, Let's keep the faith and not forget! Speed up! Speed up! Across the sea Our soldiers wait on you and me."

WORLD SAVE INDIANS FROM INJURIOUS DRUG.

Mrs. Gertrude Bonnin, a highly educated Sioux whose Indian name signifies "Red Bird," is in Washington attempting to secure legislation which will prevent the sale of peyote, a drug made from a species of cactus, to the Indians. Mrs. Bonnin's husband, who is of French and Indian descent, is a lieutenant in the United States army. Mrs. Bonnin is a contributor to magazines and is an accomplished violinist, pianist and public speaker.

BACKACHE KILLS

Don't make the fatal mistake of neglecting what may seem to be a "simple little backache." There isn't any such thing. It may be the first warning that your kidneys are not working properly, and throwing off the poisons as they should. If this is the case, go after the cause of that backache and do it quickly, or you may find yourself in the grip of an incurable disease.
GOLD MEDAL Backache Oil Capsules will give almost immediate relief from kidney and bladder troubles, which may be the unsuspected cause of general ill health. GOLD MEDAL Backache Oil Capsules are imported direct from the laboratories in Holland. They are prepared in correct quantity and convenient form to take, and are positively guaranteed to give prompt relief, or your money will be refunded.
Get them at any drug store, but be sure to insist on the GOLD MEDAL brand, and take no other. In boxes three sizes.

Pastor Given Purse.
A very pleasant surprise was given the Rev. Thomas Hughes, pastor of the Christian church, at his home on Friday evening. Fifty of the members of the congregation were present and a very enjoyable evening was spent.
Before the members of the congrega-
with a purse.

HOW TO GROW

Irish Potatoes.

The culture of the Irish potato is familiar to almost everyone who has ever had a garden. In brief, the potatoes should be planted as soon as the ground can be worked in spring, two weeks before the average date of the last killing frost being none too early. The tubers should be cut so that each piece contains from one to two eyes, and the pieces planted in rows from 24 to 30 inches apart, and from 10 to 15 inches apart in the rows, depending on the variety. Cultivation should be frequent and thorough. It is an excellent idea to work soil up to the plants as they develop, so that there will be plenty of soil to cover the potatoes as they form.

Early potatoes in the central and southern sections of the country will mature in sufficient time for the garden to grow a crop of sweet corn, late cabbage or turnips on the same ground. It is often possible to plant the second crop between the potato rows before the potatoes are dug.
Early potatoes may be used as soon as large enough, an old rule being to begin using them when they are as large as a hen's egg. The usual method is to dig them as needed, leaving the main part of the crop to develop to maturity.

In the central portion of the United States the late crop may be planted from June 15 to July 1, but in the northern sections the main crop is planted earlier than this, no attempt being made to produce early and late potatoes, as in many sections the growing season is too short for the production of two crops. Late potatoes are allowed to grow until they mature or until the frost kills the vines. The cultivation of the late crop is similar to that employed in the case of the early crop.—U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Growing Specialties.

It will pay the home gardener to grow certain specialties of which he may be fond, and which may be troublesome or expensive to purchase.
Okra is an example of this class, and little beds of parsley, chives or other herbs take up very little room and provide the housewife with additions for her table which are most welcome if they can be picked conveniently and at the right moment.

Plants which grow high and cause heavy shade should not be located where they will interfere with sun-drying small plants. It is well, also, to separate perennials, such as rhubarb and asparagus which are not cultivated, from plants which must be tilled.

The same kind of vegetables should not be grown twice, if this can be avoided, in the same part of the garden. If a radically different kind is grown, disease spores and insects, though present in the soil, probably will not attack the second crop.

SOISSON THEATRE

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, April 22, 23 & 24

Coming fresh from a remarkable engagement at the Cohan Theatre, New York, where it was the supreme photodramatic sensation of the year, we are to see "Redemption," with Evelyn Nesbit and her son, Russell Thaw.

In this, her screen debut, Miss Nesbit became a star over night. Broadway went wild over "Redemption." It was a profound sensation, winning instantly by superb photoplay, the thrill and tense interest of its narrative, the great mother-love displayed by the heroine. Miss Nesbit's truly wonderful emotional powers, the excellent cast and fine stage direction by Julius Steger and Joseph A. Golden, nothing just like it ever had been seen before and Broadway enthusiastically welcomed the novelty. Spécial music for this show which starts at 2 o'clock each day and runs continuous until 10.45 P. M.

Prices, Afternoon, 10c and 20c; Night, 15c and 25c. Don't Miss This Big Show

At the Theatres

THE PARAMOUNT.

LITTLE RED DECIDES—A Tri-angle picture made from a magazine story by William McCoy is being shown today in addition to a selected comedy, in two acts. "Little Red Decides" is a touching story of a little orphan child who was made the pet of every man on the ranch of Ferdinand Aliso over the Chinese cook becoming the child's slave. The big situation occurs when the child has been seriously ill and the doctor threatens to have him sent away from the ranch unless one of the men takes him to himself. Little Red, who will become a mother to the child, there are but three available candidates for the position and the cowboys draw lots to see which one shall sacrifice himself for the good of the child. Tom Gilroy, the jack and much against his will, proposes to three women and is turned down by the trio. Little Red is adopted by Aliso and decides the question for himself by stating that he wants the Chinese man to be his mother. Barbara Connell is quite adorable as Little Red. Tomorrow Carmel Myers will be seen in "The Wine Girl" and on Thursday Ethel Clayton will be featured in "The Witch Woman." Friday Beverly Bayne and Francis A. Bushman will appear in "The Brass Check." The Auction Block, a Goldwyn feature is Saturday's attraction. "Mabel Normand" will be seen soon in "Dodging a Million."

THE SOISSON.

"REDEMPTION"—The much talked of screen production of "Redemption" with Evelyn Nesbit and her son Russell Thaw, while still in the first flush of a glorious conquest of Broadway New York, was seen by capacity houses at the Soisson theatre yesterday and is being shown again today and tomorrow. "Redemption" is a play from life depicted with relentless truth. The story deals with a girl once an actress who at the opening of the picture is a happy wife and mother. A former admirer comes upon her and meeting her again after a number of years and in full knowledge of her former life, he is compelled to have her arrested but to avoid publicity, she does not press the charge and he is released. Shortly after this her husband dies and she and her son are left penniless. After months of struggle she establishes herself in business and earns enough money to send her son to college. Her redemption finally comes through his success. The story is beautifully told and directed artistically by Julius Steger and Joseph A. Golden. This is said to be the first of a series of Evelyn Nesbit features planned by Mr. Steger and judging from the wonderful reception received on Broadway the series will be awaited with eager excitement not only because of the power of the star's name but also because of the high quality of the productions.

ARCADE THEATRE.

On Wednesday the Arcade theatre will open with the management of S. J. Rome with high class moving pictures and musical comedy shows. Special attention will be given to the entertainment of ladies and children.

NEW SHIP EVERY TEN DAYS IS PLEDGED BY STEEL CORPORATION

First to Be Launched at Big Shipyards About Middle of Next Month.

MUCH GOVERNMENT WORK

In Progress, for Which the Corporation Has Largely Turned Over Its Many Plants; No War Exploiting or Profiteering, Says Chairman Gary.

The first ship constructed at the government's request by the United States Steel Corporation will be launched at Newark, N. J., by the middle of May, and the corporation's two yards at Mobile, Ala., and Newark, will be prepared to turn out a completed ship every 10 days, Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the corporation, announced at the annual meeting of the stockholders, on Monday.

"We did not wish to go into the business of building ships," Gary said. "This was entirely out of our line, but we were approached by gentlemen interested in government shipbuilding ships when they were most needed. After careful study we decided that we could build ships, at least as cheaply and as rapidly, and get into the business as quickly as anyone else. We started two plants, each having 10 ways—one located near Newark, N. J., and the other at Mobile, Ala."

"We started the construction of the Newark plant in August of last year and we expect to launch the first ship by the middle of May and complete the ship between July 1 and 15. The plant at Mobile is a duplicate of the one at Newark. The two yards together will turn out a completed ship every 10 days."

The corporation had responded to every government request for expansion to produce steel, Judge Gary said, suggesting to the stockholders that expenditures on new plants estimated at from $13,000,000 to $14,000,000 be taken care of out of earnings. "The government has fixed prices that will enable us to make large profits to cover these expenditures and to pay large dividends temporarily at least," he explained.

"Whatever may be said about corporations exploiting the war or profiteering from the war business, we beg the public not to include the United States Steel Corporation in that list without actual proof. We intend to serve the government of the United States, and at the present time our works have been largely turned over to that service."

Judge Gary said that he and his associates were making a very careful study of the whole war situation; that they were interested as patriotic citizens and were trying to look as far ahead as possible. He suggested that no one could tell what the competition would be after the war, but that the steel corporation wanted to be as well prepared as possible to meet it, whatever it might be.

The number of stockholders in attendance was the smallest for many years. Henry C. Frick, James H. Reed, Percival Roberts, Jr., and Robert Windsor were re-elected directors for a three-year term.

President Wilson appears on the stock records of the corporation as a holder of 47 shares of preferred with his registered address Princeton, N. J.

The Savings Are Enormous

This or Liberty Bonds?

Which do you prefer?

Can you for a minute contemplate the possibility of America failing in this war? It would mean that your farm and your home would feel the iron hand of the enemy with its death and destruction.

Perhaps you may think that this is not possible, that the war is so far away that whatever might happen it would never come to America.

Don't deceive yourself. In these days distance amounts to nothing and if America and her allies fail it is just as certain as day follows night that America will be invaded and her homes laid in ruins, her people murdered and the country visited with the same deadly horrors that have been spread over Belgium and Northern France.

There is one thing that you can do to prevent this.

FREQUENT CULTIVATION SHOULD BE GIVEN GARDEN VEGETABLES

These Boys Furnish Their Own Power for Their Home-Made Cultivator.

The first step in the cultivation and care of the garden lies in proper plowing and preparation of the soil. The entire seedbed should be thoroughly pulverized as deep as the soil is plowed. The next step is to make sure that the rows are laid out perfectly straight and far enough apart so that when horse cultivation is employed there will be sufficient room for the horse to walk and so that when hand cultivation is to be employed there will be room for the wheel hoe. Straight rows enable the gardener to give the crops better cultivation than would be otherwise possible.

Frequent shallow cultivation should be given garden crops. By keeping the surface of the soil stirred a dust mulch is formed, which prevents the loss of moisture. In this way weeds are prevented from getting a start.

Cultivate After Rain. The soil should be cultivated as soon as dry enough after a rain, to break the crust and prevent baking. Sandy soils may be cultivated when quite wet but clay soils should not be stirred when wet enough to cling together in a mass when lightly squeezed in the hand. Too much emphasis cannot be placed on the matter of thorough cultivation. If the work is properly done at the right time there will be little difficulty in controlling weeds.

If the work is to be done with horse-drawn tools, the five-shovel cultivator is an excellent tool as it breaks the surface thoroughly, destroying weeds very effectively and leaves the ground fairly level.

The hand cultivator is a good implement, as it can be used for small growing vegetables and those planted too close for horse cultivation. Hand Work Essential. Some hand work is always essential, no matter how thoroughly the horse cultivation is done. It is a good plan to go over the garden after finishing with the cultivator and by means of the hoe or rake pull clods and stones from around the plants remove any weeds not destroyed by the cultivation and uncover any plants accidentally covered by clods or earth during the cultivation.

It is an excellent plan to train tomatoes, peas, etc. on stakes or other supports, as this makes it possible to keep the garden in good condition with a minimum of labor.

TO ERADICATE GARDEN PEST

Most Effective Method of Combating Nematode Galls is to Starve It to Death

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture. The very serious losses caused by the gall-forming nematode in gardens especially in the South have resulted in the trial of numerous methods of control. One of the most effective methods yet tested is to starve the pest. This may be accomplished by dividing the garden into two parts one of which is available for cultivation while the other is kept on the other half and changed from one to the other about every two to four years. The gall-former is absolutely dependent on the roots of the higher plants for its nourishment. It no such plants are allowed to grow the pest is starved and in the course of a year or two it can be brought to a stage where its ravages will not be serious.

Alternate Garden and Fowl Run. The suggested alternation of fowl run with garden may be brought about simply by fencing in the fowls. If possible it would be well to arrange the division of the land in the direction of its slope, so that the drainage will not be from the garden to the fowl run or vice versa. The idea is to keep the fowl run free from vegetation for a year or two. This means that about the maximum number of fowls for the area must be kept and that the soil must be occasionally spaded or otherwise stirred. This stirring of the soil is a good thing for the fowls and helps also to reduce the nematode pest for every time the earth is spaded fresh soil is brought to the action of the sun and air and becomes more or less disinfected through their action on the eggs and larvae of the pest.

There are thousands of gardens where this procedure is practicable. Definite information with regard to the existence of the gall-forming nematode may be obtained by submitting abnormal roots to the department of agriculture for examination.

HUMUS OF MUCH IMPORTANCE

Adds Plant Food and Makes It Available—It Supplies Media in Which Bacteria Live

Humus adds plant food and makes plant food available. It supplies media in which the soil bacteria live and multiply causing chemical changes in the soil which make the plant food elements soluble and available to plant roots. It cultivates the soil giving good tilth and a texture favorable to soil aeration and to the absorption and holding of soil moisture.

Garden Peas Favorite Crop. Garden peas are a favorite crop in the home garden and as they are not injured easily by light frosts they may be planted as soon as the soil can be put in order in the spring. By selecting a number of varieties it is possible to have a continuous supply of peas throughout a large portion of the growing season.

Ready Market for Crops. Early cabbage, cauliflower, celery, tomato and other garden plants should find a ready market this year. For lots in some of the towns and cities are using part of their houses for growing this kind of stock.

CHAPTER XX.

Morin, the fisherman, when Rosa Varona remained consciousness sufficiently to understand what had happened she proved herself a person of no little self-control. It was she in fact, who first voiced the fear that Cobo dead was scarcely less a menace than Cobo alive.

"What are we going to do with him?" she inquired.

Jacket too appreciated the dangers of the situation. We must get rid of him quickly, said he. "For his men are close by he will be missed and there will be a search."

"I don't intend to make him a present of that treasure," O'Reilly said, grumpy. "It is our only salvation."

"But how are we going to hide him?" Jacket inquired. "One might as well try to conceal a church organ couldn't hold him out of that hole."

"Precisely! He has made our work easy for us. We can't take a more than a small part of the money with us anyhow, the rest will have to lie here until the war is over. Well! We shall leave Cobo on guard over what remains!"

Jacket was immensely pleased with this idea, once he had grasped it. "What could be better?" he cried. "The man's spirit is evil enough to frighten people away and we will drop stones upon him so that he can learn the taste of his own medicine. It suits me exactly to think of Cobo standing on his head in a hole in the ground for the rest of eternity!"

O'Reilly was by this time suffering the full reaction from the events of the past half hour and he was nearer exhaustion than he dreamed but conquering his repugnance for his uncapable task he lowered himself once more into the well. His arms were weak however, and his legs numb so he felt rather than did the length of the rope. He managed to open the door of the treasure chamber then entered and loaded his pockets with gold. He sent up the jewel box at the end of the rope dragged the body of Cobo into the cave then wedged the barricade back into place. It required the combined strength of Rosa and Jacket to help him the last few feet of his climb. "Now fetch stones rubbish, anything—and throw it in there," he gasped. "The boy and the girl fell to with a will and after a time Johnnie joined them. Only later on they the three of them carried debris from the edge of the quarry and bricks from the ruined house, they scraped up armfuls of leaves and trash—anything in fact which would serve to raise the bottom of the shaft and conceal the entrance to their enemy's resting place. It was a slavish work, but O'Reilly kept them at it until they were ready to drop. Daylight overtook them at their task. They were weak, sick, dandy tired they could barely shuffle a few yards at a time when they finally reached Ascencio's hut, nevertheless there was hope to their hearts for O'Reilly's ragged clothes sagged with the weight of gold pieces and the little metal box he carried was heavy. Nor were they greatly concerned about the safety of the treasure they had left behind for the entrance to the cavern lay deeply buried and Cobo the guerrilla stood guard over the chests of plate and the canks of coin.

Evangelina vastly bewildered at the sight of the coin which was forced into her palm, went for food and spent most of the day in cooking it. The treasure hunters alternately slept and ate. It was not until well along toward evening that Rosa and O'Reilly felt any desire to take stock of the contents of that jewel box but finally with heads together and with backs to the door of the hole, they made a furtive examination. They found emeralds and sapphires the value of which they did not attempt to estimate and besides these a miscellaneous assortment of semiprecious stones.

O'Reilly realized vaguely that he held in his lap a fortune greater than his wildest dreams had ever comprehended. These were the jewels of a rajah. It seemed incredible that this ragged girl beside him was a regal heiress the possessor of a treasure such as kings might envy. After a time he realized that the mere possession of these gems constituted a new and overwhelming menace.

Morin found all huddles more nearly rational and feeling the first gaspings of a healthy hunger. Even Ascencio confessed to a quite miraculous improvement. While Evangelina prepared breakfast the lovers agreed upon a story to explain the origin of their treasure and told it to each other. Johnnie warned Jacket for a second time to keep his tongue between his teeth.

Jacket nodded his complete comprehension. "Sure! All Spaniards are robbers and they kill us for a peso. Yes and the pacificos are no better. I tell you we need to get out of this place."

"I intend to arrange it at once but—the sight of those jewels has frightened me. If we are searched—if we are even suspected I'm wondering if Rosa can endure the hardships we'll encounter when or if we get away."

"Exactly what I was thinking. I've been considering and we plan. I told you about my friend at the market. Well, he is a miserable Spaniard, but he has a son in the mailguard."

One of us? Johnnie was surprised. "Yes. The old fellow owns a volcano dra in which he brings charcoal from the eastward twice a month. He might take us out of here—on his schooner."

"How well does he like you?" "Oh we are like two thieves."

After a period of thought O'Reilly said, "Take me to him and remember I'm your brother Juan."

The Matanzas market did not present a scene of great activity when the two friends slunk into it. The most Spanish markets the building was far from clean and boned others unpleasant even to starving people. In the smelliest section at one of the fish stalls Jacket accosted a villainous old brigand in a rough Gallego cap, baggy blouse and trousers and said: "Sun dais!"

Good day my captain, he cried cheerily. The Spaniard raised his head, scowled ferociously then waved a long thin blade knife in menacing fashion. "Ah! So there you are robber? Be off now before I slit your greedy little belly! Didn't I promise to give you to the soldiers if you came back to bother me?"

Jacket was unabashed by this hostile reception. He grinned broadly and with an impudent eye he scanned the empty premises. "Where is my little fish?" he demanded. "As I live I believe you have sold it! What a miser! For the sake of another centavo you would see me starve? There's a heart for you! Come give me my fish. Or must I lie down and die before your very eyes to prove my hunger?" "What a nuisance!" grumbled the matanzero. He reached into a basket and flung a mackerel upon the table. "There! I saved it for you, and sent the good woman of Matanzas away empty handed. But it is the very last. Annoy me again and I shall open you with my knife and put salt on you."

"Ah! You are my good captain!" Jacket cried in triumph, possessing himself of the prize. "Where could I have been but for you?" Turning to O'Reilly, who had looked on from a distance, he said: "Captain Morin this is that brother Juan of whom I have told you."

Morin smiled at Johnnie and extended his dirty palm. The little fellow can speak the truth when he wishes, it seems. I began to doubt that he had a brother. What a boy eh? "You have a son with the insurgents?"

"Yes." The fisherman cast a furtive glance over his shoulder. "Why don't you go and fight by his side?" Jacket demanded.

"God forbid! Morin swung up his hands. "I'm a loyal subject."

"Well we are going back to fight. We are going to escape and join Gomez once more!" Jacket made the announcement calmly.

"Ssh! What talk!" Morin was in a nervous panic lest they be overheard. "As if anybody could escape from Matanzas! What made you come here if you are so eager to fight?"

"I'll tell you," O'Reilly assumed direction of the conversation. "There are three of us brothers, we two and Escoban a pretty little fellow. He was captured by Cobo's men and driven in and we came to find him. But he is sick—dying."

"Of course. They're all dying—the poor people. It is terrible!"

"We—O'Reilly faltered slightly so much hung upon the manner in which Morin would take what he was about to say. "I want to get him out of here—we must do so or we'll lose him. Will you help us?"

"In heaven's name how?" "By taking us away in your char-coal schooner."

"You are mad!" Morin cast another apprehensive look over his shoulder. "I'm a poor man. All I have is my two boxes of the vivero which brings fish and the volandera which sails with charcoal. Do you think I'd forfeit them and my life for strangers?"

O'Reilly leaned closer. "You say you're a poor man. I will pay you well."

Morin eyed the rugged speaker scornfully. It was plain that he put no faith in such a promise and so O'Reilly took a piece of gold from his pocket at sight of which the fisherman started.

"I am a poor man but I'm willing to buy freedom for my little brothers and myself."

"How many coins like that have you?" "Um—more than one, enough to pay you for several cargoes of coal."

For the sake of Miguelito Jacket urged: "Carumbá! What a hard hearted fellow that boy!"

Bursting the fisherman was scowling. "O'Reilly said: 'You do wrong to tempt a poor man.'"

"My brother Escoban is sick. He is a frail little lad with a crooked back. God will reward you."

"Perhaps! But how much will you pay?"

"Ten Spanish sovereigns like in— all that I have."

"No. It is not enough." O'Reilly took Jacket's hand and turned away. "I'm sorry," he said. "I wish I might offer you more. I had taken several steps before Morin halted him."

"Come back tomorrow, the fisherman cried crossly. We will try to do like sensible people."

The brothers Villar were back at Morin's fish stand on the following afternoon and they returned daily thereafter until they at last prevailed over the Spaniard's fears and won his promise of assistance. That much accomplished they made several cautious purchases a coat here, a shirt there, a pair of trousers in another place until they had assembled a complete boy's outfit of clothing.

At first Rosa refused absolutely to desert her two faithful negro friends and O'Reilly would her consent to consider his plan of escape only after he had put the matter squarely up to Ascencio and his wife and after both had refused to enter into it.

Then and not until then did Rosa bestir her preparations. First she made Evangelina cut her hair a certain cut that wrung sighs and tears and loud lamentations from the black woman after which she altered the suit of boy's clothing to fit her figure or rather to conceal it.

When at last she put it on for O'Reilly's approval she was very shy, very self-conscious and so altogether unlovely that he shook his head positively.

"My dear, you'll never do," he told her. "You are altogether too pretty."

"But wait until I put that hideous bump upon my back and sin my face, then you will see how ugly I can look."

Senesco Tooth Paste Powerful To Save the Teeth and Prevent Diseases

"All dressed up with a hole in his shoe," was a bit of sarcasm a girl flung at a young man friend whose orthodontic was new except his pained, tired shoes. Right enough too! (The man or woman a shabby pair of shoes spoils the appearance of the most elegant garments over worn.)

What about the teeth? Dress in all this finery please, if you open your mouth exposing a decayed set of teeth, your attractiveness ends right there. There's a hole in the shoe for you. This applies both to men and women. Girls and young men, you lose half the admiration which would be directed toward you if you have bad teeth. You can't be pleased with a mouthful of decay. You can't be healthy either. The condition of the teeth have a bearing influence on other organs of the body. Bad teeth affect the intestines, stomach, heart and even the eyes. Medical science shows that bad teeth produce unhealthy conditions all over the body.

With Senesco Tooth Paste at your service—a scientifically prepared preparation of fluorine—there is no need of fearing a prey to these ill-effects. Used regularly on a set of good teeth the decay germs have little chance to enter. If they should enter they can't exist long under its thorough cleaning properties. As a cleanser and preventive of disease of the teeth it is positively reliable. Advanced cases should be treated by your dentist.

Use Senesco Tooth Paste as a preventive. Ask your dentist if you should not pay all attention to your teeth. Of course we want our Senesco Tooth Paste will cure pyorrhea. If you already have it, your dentist is the doctor. Prep. If you are afflicted with this terrible disease Senesco Tooth Paste will help you to get rid of it with your dentist's assistance. But we don't want you to contract any ailment of the mouth and teeth, nor does your dentist. A preventive is far better than to have to go through the trials of a cure. Save your teeth by Senesco Tooth Paste and the probability is that you won't have to deal with foul and painful diseases. By taking exact care of your teeth you may save stomach, intestinal heart and eye troubles. Take all precaution to keep the teeth clean and do it with Senesco Tooth Paste, the latest discovery of dental science. Senesco Tooth Paste, Connelville, Pa.

70,000 LEWIS GUNS

Ordered by the Government Despite the Turn Down by Ordnance Experts.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—It became known here yesterday that the government had awarded contracts for 70,000 Lewis machine guns, despite the fact that Secretary Baker and Ordnance experts a few months ago rejected that type of gun for ground fighting, and said that the gun would only be used in aeroplanes.

It is stated that the production of Lewis guns in the United States was allowed to run down to 50 a week, but that now 120 are being manufactured here each day, and that by January 1 the production will be 300 daily. Because Colonel Lewis, the inventor of the gun, had agreed to turn back all his royalties to the government, it is stated that he will return to the federal treasury approximately $2,500,000 on the 70,000 order.

Colonel Lewis is a Fayette countyman, having been born and reared in Nicholson township.

Saving dollars and wasting the lives of the boys in the trenches is poor business. Better invest in a Liberty Bonds.
